New Directions Members Booklet

Number 1

January 1981

INTRODUCTION to first edition.

This is the first informal publication from the New Directions in the Study of Alcohol Group. The Group was officially constituted in 1980 but had existed informally for four years prior to that.

The Group aims to provide a forum in which those concerned professionally in the field of alcohol use and abuse can meet to share ideas, to support each other in trying out new methods of working, and whenever possible engage in an open and critical debate around issues that affect our work.

As the membership is geographically scattered we hope this booklet will provide a mechanism by which members may share formative ideas; describe new methods of working, or float preliminary research findings.

NDSAG is not able to give help and advice to individuals regarding drink problems. If you require help of this nature Alcohol Concern has a list of agencies in your area that can help. Click to contact New Directions in the Study of Alcohol Group (Registered Charity No: 281398)
